

2. HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

The ability of the City of Benbrook to shape its future is intimately tied to its past. Prior transportation and land subdivision actions profoundly affect the ability to make future land use decisions by establishing the framework within which future development can take place. Prior economic activity tends to direct future economic activity along associated lines. Prior planning activities, whether implemented or not, also continue to influence land use decisions directly or indirectly.

Prior to the arrival of Anglo settlers, large herds of buffalo and members of the Wichita, Caddo, Comanche and Lipan Apache Indian tribes roamed the Benbrook area. Archeologists estimate that the area has been inhabited for some 11,000 years<sup>1</sup>. Indian communities look for the same environmental factors as present communities, with the availability of an adequate water supply being a primary consideration. Undoubtedly, the confluence of the Clear Fork-Trinity River and Mary's Creek provided such a watering place to tribes as they passed through the area on hunting expeditions.

As a community, Benbrook is one of the oldest in Tarrant County. But as an incorporated City, it is one of the youngest.

Anglos originally settled the Benbrook area, part of the Peters' Colony established by the Republic of Texas, in the 1850s. W.S. Peters of Kentucky was granted a contract to attract 250 families per year by offering 320 acres free to family men and 160 acres to single immigrants, plus a free cabin, seed and musket balls.<sup>2</sup> S. Edward and Nancy Willburn of Missouri reportedly came to the area in 1843 as Family 107 of the Peters' Colony, then settling along Mary's Creek near Benbrook in 1854s.<sup>3</sup> A "Mary's Creek Post Office" was established sometime during the 1850s or 1860s, with Benjamin Richerson serving as Postmaster.<sup>4</sup> Lemuel Edwards settled along the Clear Fork near present-day Hulen Street in 1848, with land holdings that eventually covered 4,020 acres by 1955.<sup>5</sup>

A 20-foot by 20-foot single-room school building and Methodist Church was built in 1857 near the Clear Fork by Edward Willburn. The structure was apparently made on concrete and had a dirt floor, but the structure apparently collapsed from poor construction materials in 1865<sup>6</sup>. Classes had apparently ceased during the Civil War.<sup>7</sup> A new school and church known as "Old Rawhide" was built of lumber in 1872 by the Chapman, Edwards, Ward, Majors, and Willburn families. Newspaper accounts indicate 27 students in 1877 and 48 students in 1879.<sup>8</sup> This building reportedly burned down in 1879. The school was re-established near the corner of the present Mercedes Street and Winscott Road and was called the Miranda (or Marinda) School (or "Marinda Academy"<sup>9</sup>) named after one of the Willburn children, Mrs. Merinda Snyder, who donated five acres of land to the "Marinda Seminary School Community" for the school.<sup>10</sup> The site reportedly included a cemetery<sup>11</sup> which probably was the beginning of the present Benbrook Cemetery which was established in 1885.<sup>12</sup> The building continued to double as the Methodist Church. The community was known by the name of the school during its early years. A post office was established at Benbrook in 1880.<sup>13</sup>

Just three years later, the Marinda School (and Church) was relocated again to the intersection of Winscott Road and Old Benbrook Road (where the present day Computalog building is located.), again on land donated by Mrs. Merinda Snyder.<sup>14</sup> The Benbrook Common School District No. 58 was established in 1884. The school was renamed Benbrook School in 1885<sup>15</sup> and residents became the first district in Tarrant County to vote for a school tax.<sup>16</sup> The school had 64 students by 1905.<sup>17</sup>

A branch of the "Old Chisholm Trail" apparently passed through the area, crossing Mary's Creek at Old Rawhide Crossing in the area of the present Z. Boaz Park, and served as a route to avoid the main trail route through downtown Fort Worth. A branch trail, known as the Long Trail or Cleburne Cut-Off, extended from Raw Hide Crossing to Cleburne and shortened the trip by 13 miles.<sup>18</sup> The Butterfield Stage Line followed the Old Chisholm Trail and was headquartered in Bowie, Texas<sup>19</sup>. An old water well used to water the horses was located on the Coder farm. The Fort Worth-El Paso Mail Route Stage Line also ran along Mary's Creek on its way west (1876-1881), and was reportedly robbed several times in the vicinity of

Miranda. A gang known as the "Bold Banditti" (including Sam Bass) was responsible for many of these crimes and they often took refuge in "Hell's Half Acre" on what is now the site of the Tarrant County Convention Center in downtown Fort Worth. Bass reportedly robbed the Cleburne-Fort Worth stage at Mary's Creek in November 1877 and the Weatherford-Fort Worth stage on January 26, 1878.<sup>20</sup> Fleming (Slim) Doggett robbed the Granbury Stage near Benbrook, and was later slain by Texas Rangers on the H.C. Stephens farm.<sup>21</sup>

In 1876, local resident James M. Benbrook petitioned the Texas & Pacific Railroad to place a station along Mary's Creek near Miranda as the railroad ran west out of Fort Worth. The line was completed to Benbrook in May 1880<sup>22</sup> and the station was named after Benbrook Station by the railroad. In May 1893, James Benbrook sold the Texas and Pacific Railroad a half-acre for use as a depot for $25.00.<sup>23</sup> During the 1890s, two trains a day stopped in Benbrook<sup>24</sup>. Just like the stage line, the railroad was an easy target for thieves, particularly at the wooden trestle bridge over Mary's Creek. In 1886, Congressman S.W.T. Lanham (later to be elected as Governor) was a victim of a robbery near Benbrook while traveling from Weatherford to Fort Worth to give a speech on prohibition.<sup>25</sup> The train was robbed by five men in June 1887<sup>26</sup> and again in September 1887<sup>27</sup>, both of which were attributed to the Rueben and James Burrows gang who later bragged about train robberies he pulled in "Bend Brooke(sic)".<sup>28</sup> A robbery in 1896 in broad daylight, allegedly by Eugene "Captain Dick" Bunch<sup>29</sup>, was one of the last such robberies in Texas.<sup>30</sup> A total of $40,000 was reportedly stolen.<sup>31</sup>

Figure 1. James M. Benbrook

The Peter Boaz family arrived in Birdville from Kentucky in 1873 and the family subsequently moved to Benbrook in 1878. Among Peter and Martha's nine children were Will N. Boaz, Hiram Abiff Boaz, Ex Boaz and Z Boaz. Hiram Boaz reportedly converted at one of the Old Rawhide Camp Meetings<sup>32</sup>, became one of the early leaders of the Methodist Church in Benbrook and subsequently became a Methodist Bishop in 1922 and president of both Polytechnic College in Fort Worth (later known as Texas Wesleyan) and Southern Methodist University in Dallas.<sup>33</sup> After Peter Boaz's death in 1882, his widow married James M. Benbrook. J.A. Childers, ranch foreman for W.J. Boaz's 3,000-acre ranch, and later constable and county commissioner, built his home on Old Benbrook Road during the 1870s.<sup>34</sup> Z Boaz donated 136 acres of land to the City of Fort Worth as a public park in 1928, only because Benbrook did not have a municipal government or park department at that time. Z Boaz died in 1935 and is buried in the Benbrook Cemetery along with his wife, Teck who died in 1970, and an infant son, Thank, who died in 1898.<sup>35</sup>

The Benbrook family had arrived in the Miranda area in 1874 from Illinois. James Benbrook was known as "Squire" because of his English heritage and served as Justice of the Peace for many years.<sup>36</sup> James M. Benbrook was born in Posey County, Indiana on June 20, 1831. He was the grandson of Ezekial G. Benbrook, born in North Carolina in 1748<sup>37</sup> and who reportedly served as a Colonel with George Washington in Valley Forge. Ezekial's son James and his wife Sarah Shadowen were the parents of James M. Benbrook.<sup>38</sup> The family moved to Hamilton County, Illinois in 1845, and he married Martha Metcalf in 1852. James fought as a sergeant with the 40th Illinois Volunteer Infantry during the Civil War and was wounded in the hip in 1862. Following the War, Benbrook and his family traveled south for his health, finally settling in Miranda in November 1876.<sup>39</sup> In 1891, they built a large two-story Victorian house near Walnut Creek. James and Martha had six children, three of which died in infancy. The other three children included Albert L. who became a teacher, Monroe who went into the furniture business in Dallas, and Ida who married Dr. E.W. Snyder and moved to Brownwood. Martha died in July 1884 and was buried by the Baptist Church (James was a Methodist). James later married Mrs. L.A. Boaz, widow of Peter Boaz. James Benbrook was active in politics during his life, serving as constable in Illinois and as Justice of the Peace while in Benbrook. He died on February 18, 1907.<sup>40</sup>

The families that lived north of the railroad along Mary's Creek also built a school and church, known as Chapin School,<sup>41</sup> after early settler I.H. Chapin. The Wallace's settled along Mary's Creek near the intersection of Chapin Road and Chapin School Road.<sup>42</sup> The property was later purchased by Arch Rowan, president of Rowan & Nichols Oil Co.

Several family cemeteries were established in 1867. The Willburn Cemetery remains at 3720 Streamwood Road in what is now Ridglea Country Club Estates. The Willburn cemetery contains about 15 graves<sup>43</sup> with burials from 1867 to 1924.<sup>44</sup> The Burke Cemetery is located just outside the city limit on Bryant-Irvin Road.<sup>45</sup> The Jackson Cemetery is located on the north side of Chapin Road adjacent to Leonard Middle School.<sup>46</sup> In 1885, the Benbrook Cemetery was established with James M. Benbrook as one of the original trustees. Graves from the Hunter, Day, January and Mustang cemeteries were moved to the site in 1947 to avoid inundation by Benbrook Lake and the Howard Cemetery was relocated from the Wedgwood area in 1955. James M. Benbrook's grave in the Benbrook Cemetery is designated with an Official Texas Historical Marker.<sup>47</sup>

By the turn of the Century, some of the initial transportation routes were established that continue in use today, as shown on a U.S. Geological Survey map from 1894. The Texas and Pacific Railroad line is now operated by Union Pacific and travels along Mary's and Walnut Creeks. A rail accident at the Mary's Creek trestle reportedly sent 18 cattle cars into the creek in 1902 or 1903.<sup>48</sup> The main settlement of Benbrook, located within a four-block area around the railroad station, was located near the present junction of Interstate Highway 20 and U.S. Highway 377 along Aledo Road. The settlement was reached from the east along the present Old Benbrook Road and Stove Foundry Road (now known as Vickery). Winscott-Plover Road extended south along its present route to Dutch Branch, now submerged by Benbrook Lake. A road extended east from Winscott-Plover Road near the present Mercedes Street to cross the Clear Fork. Remnants of this county road are still evident on undeveloped land north of Timber Creek.

In 1900, the Moore house and farm was established south of Chapin Road near the present Loop 820.<sup>49</sup> The property is currently being used as a stables.

Winscott Road is named for early Fort Worth rancher, developer and hotel owner Winfield Scott (no relation to the famous general of the same name.) Scott was born in Kentucky in 1848 and moved to Tarrant County in 1868. The Winfield Scott Ranch covered over 12,000 acres in Tarrant, Johnson and Parker Counties.<sup>50</sup> The ranch manager's house was apparently moved when Benbrook Lake was constructed and is now located on Winscott-Plover Road south of Benbrook Lake. Scott built and/or owned several hotels and businesses in Fort Worth and constructed Thistle Hill as his private residence.

A new two-room brick school building was constructed in 1912 to replace the previous building at the intersection of Old Benbrook Road and Winscott Road.<sup>51</sup> The $3,000 construction cost was financed by bonds.<sup>52</sup> In 1918, a second teacher was added. The school building was severely damaged by wind storms in both 1913 and 1923.<sup>53</sup> This building was replaced again at the same location by a larger four-room structure of flagstone in 1936, plus a larger gymnasium and stage.<sup>54</sup> In fact, a portion of the original gymnasium has been incorporated into the Computalog industrial facility. The $15,000 building was also financed by bonds and was built by V.A. Davis, who resigned from the school board to bid on the project, while landscaping was done by the Works Progress Administration.<sup>55</sup> Even with the larger building, some students had to be taught in the basement of the Methodist Church next door.<sup>56</sup>

Early during World War I, General John J. "Blackjack" Pershing invited the Royal Canadian Flying Corps to establish its training fields in Texas because of its mild weather.<sup>57</sup> After looking at sites in Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, Austin, Wichita Falls and Midland, three sites were established in 1917 in the Fort Worth vicinity; one each in North Fort Worth, Everman and Benbrook (known as the 'Flying Triangle.') The Royal Flying Corps used the fields from October 1917 to April 1918, when they were turned over to the U.S. Army.<sup>58</sup>

Figure 2. Vernon Castle

Taliaferro Field No. 3, later renamed Carruthers Field<sup>59</sup> (after Cadet W.K. Carruthers who was killed on June 18, 1917<sup>60</sup>) was located south of Mercedes Street in what is now Benbrook Lakeside subdivision. Most of the 34 buildings and hangers<sup>61</sup> were located in an area generally bounded by Mercedes Street on the north, Winscott Road on the east, Cozby North Street on the south, and Walnut Creek on the west. A railroad spur connected with the Texas & Pacific line across Walnut Creek. When the U.S. entered the war, the field was renamed Benbrook Field and served to train American pilots as well.

The most famous casualty was Vernon W. Blyth Castle ("Castle" being a stage name), part of the famous Vernon and Irene Castle dance team who introduced the tango to the U.S. in 1913.<sup>62</sup> Captain Castle, recipient of the French Croix de Guerre for his combat missions over Germany and Commander of the 84th Canadian Training Squadron, Royal Flying Corps,<sup>63</sup> was killed on February 15, 1918 while avoiding another airplane that was landing.<sup>64</sup> Mrs. Castle was in Washington at the time. The funeral for Castle was reportedly one of the largest held in Fort Worth and drew national attention. Castle's body was taken to New York for burial.<sup>65</sup> The training field and its buildings were razed in the 1920s<sup>66</sup>. A memorial for Vernon Castle was erected in 1966 at the crash site near the corner of Vernon Castle Avenue and Cozby West Street<sup>67</sup>, and included a replica of a Curtis Jenny and photographs of Castle and the airfield<sup>68</sup> which were later stolen. The monument was restored by Eagle Scout Jerret Martin and rededicated in 1997.<sup>69</sup> The only remaining building is an ammunition warehouse west of U.S. 377, though the foundations of several buildings can be found behind some of the homes along Cozby North Street. The City contacted the National Archives, the Defense Department and Texas State Library to find original plans for the airfield, but to no avail.<sup>70</sup> Following the closure of Benbrook Field, the land was purchased by William Monnig and was used as a dairy. The dairy was later purchased by Manning Trammell, and then by Mrs. Grace Cozby.<sup>71</sup>

In 1916, the route of present-day Camp Bowie West was originally part of the Fort Worth-Mineral Wells Highway. It was later designated by the State of Texas in 1918 as part of the Texarkana, Dallas, Fort Worth and El Paso Highway (later built as State Highway 1). One year later, the route was included as part of the Bankhead Highway by the Bankhead Highway Association, a private association that promoted the building of a good road from Atlanta to California across the southern United States<sup>72</sup>. The route later became U.S. 80, part of the Federal Aid Highway system. In the 1990s, U.S. 80 was decommissioned and the route was designated as Spur 580. In 2001, it was renamed by Fort Worth as Camp Bowie West.

Benbrook's population was estimated to be 33 people in both 1920 and 1930 and the community had two stores. Other nearby communities in the 1930s included Chapin (25 voters), Wheatland (population of 40 and a school), Plover, and Primrose. One of the earliest buildings remaining in Benbrook is the Eddie Brustrum House at 8204 Old Benbrook Road, which was originally constructed about 1891 as the Methodist parsonage<sup>73</sup>. The Corn House in far southwest Benbrook (11555 Highway 377 South) was built about 1919 by James Corn, a rancher who owned more than 55,000 acres.<sup>74</sup> John Stevens, for whom Stevens Road is named, was foreman on the Corn Ranch. M.N. Wallace purchased the "old Benbrook Home" property along Old Benbrook Road in 1921 and built two rock houses. The M.N. Wallace house at 8216 Old Benbrook Road was built in 1921. The Frank E. Wallace house is located at 8212 Old Benbrook Road and constructed in 1923. Frank E. Wallace was co-owner with M.N. Wallace of Benbrook's general store, from 1936 to 1941 when it was sold. F.E. Wallace also ran the post office with M.N. Wallace serving as mail carrier.<sup>75</sup> The M.N. Wallace house at 8216 Old Benbrook Road was torn down in 1986. The American Legion Paul Mansir Post 297 nearby at 8201 Old Benbrook Road originally was constructed in 1933 as the Benbrook Church of Christ. Stoneworker P.A. King of Aledo reportedly supervised construction.<sup>76</sup> The one-lane Mary's Creek bridge was constructed in 1922 by the County<sup>77</sup>, and removed by the Texas Department of Transportation in 1993 to make room for a larger bridge.

The Methodist Church built a new building from 1929 to 1931, in Greek Revival style, with funding from members and from rancher Cass Edwards, who felt the Building Committee's original plans were too small.<sup>78</sup> The building had a sanctuary upstairs and classrooms in the basement and its own electric light plant. Bishop H.A. Boaz officiated at the opening with Rev. Floyd Thrash serving as pastor.<sup>79</sup> The building was later used by the Benbrook Pentecostal Baptist Church<sup>80</sup> when the Methodists moved to a new location on Bryant Street in 1957. The Baptists and two other congregations met in a building erected on a one-acre plot donated by Z Boaz.<sup>81</sup>

Fig. 3. Benbrook Methodist Church

Many imposing homes were built in the area during the 1930s by such people as Elliot Roosevelt (son of then President Roosevelt), Ellison Harding (president of Fort Worth National Bank), and Ed Sproles (head of Texas Motor Truck Transport Company).<sup>82</sup> The population had grown to 161 people by 1935. The Elliott Roosevelt home was in the area of what is now the east side of Lake Benbrook, near St. Francis Village.<sup>83</sup> The Sproles House was constructed in 1934 and served as the center of a large cattle ranch, much of which was submerged by Benbrook Lake in 1947<sup>84</sup>. Most of the house and outbuildings remain near the intersection of Sproles Drive and U.S. 377. The current owners, Jerry and Ann Dittrich won an award from the Historic Preservation Council for Tarrant County in 1996 for their restoration efforts.

Roosevelt's Dutch Branch Ranch covered approximately 1,300 acres in the Benbrook area with the ranch house located off of Old Granbury Road (West Cleburne Road) on the east of what is now Benbrook Lake. The ranch was purchased in 1935 by Elliott's wife, Ruth Goggins Roosevelt, and served as Elliott's home while he was president of the Texas State (radio) Network. President Franklin Roosevelt visited his son at the ranch on four occasions from 1936 to 1944.<sup>85</sup> The Roosevelts sold the ranch in 1944 and Fort Worth oilman Sid W. Richardson later purchased it in 1946. Much of the ranch was condemned by the U.S. Government for construction of Benbrook Lake in 1947. In contrast to the opulent homes built during the 1930s, a "Hooverville" shantytown was reported in the vicinity of Benbrook in 1933 during the Great Depression.

By the 1940s, most of the non-highway road network was maintained by Tarrant County. Old Benbrook Road/Aledo Road was County Road 1024. Winscott-Plover Road was County Road 1042 and Sproles Road was County Road 1048. Mercedes Street was County Road 1046 and Chapin Road was County Road 1040. U.S. 377 and U.S. 80 were constructed, as was R.M. 2871, though it was apparently designated as F.M. 287 at the time. Williams Road was present as well. On the other hand, the Benbrook Railroad Station was apparently closed and was torn down during the 1940s.<sup>86</sup> Lee Harvey Oswald apparently began his schooling in Benbrook, but moved shortly thereafter in 1946.<sup>87</sup> A volunteer fire department was organized in 1949.<sup>88</sup>

By 1940, the Benbrook community had grown to 100 people and three stores. Fort Worth donated land to the federal government that same year for the construction of a bomber plant to be operated by Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Company<sup>89</sup> (Convair; later renamed General Dynamics then Lockheed Martin). The plant began construction on April 18, 1941 and the first B-24 "Liberator" bomber rolled off the assembly line in April 1942.<sup>90</sup> The Tarrant Air Drome (later renamed Carswell Air Force Base in 1948) was established at the same time. In May 1947, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers began construction of Benbrook Dam on the Clear Fork.<sup>91</sup> Authorized by the Rivers and Harbors Act of 1945, the dam was designed to prevent flooding such as the major floods in 1922, 1947 and 1949. The May 1949 flood killed 10 people and left over 13,000 people homeless in Fort Worth following 10 inches of rain in 12 hours.<sup>92</sup> Benbrook Dam was completed in December 1950 and began impounding water in 1952.

Benbrook Estates subdivision (which includes Del Rio Avenue, Goliad Street, and San Angelo Avenue to Mercedes Street) was platted in 1946. Lots were typically 70 feet by 170 feet.

On November 17th, 1947, the residents voted 25 to 0 to incorporate as a Village<sup>93</sup>. The total area included in the new city was 13.3 square miles, including area east of the Clear Fork in what is now the CityView development and areas west of Loop 820 and north of Walnut Creek. The first mayor was Ed Sproles and first aldermen included Mrs. Grace Cozby, J.A. Childers, W.J. Nolte, M.N. Wallace and D.I. Sessums. Earl Cleveland was elected city marshal-tax collector. One of the new Village's first actions (Ordinance Number 2) was to create a Planning and Zoning Commission in August 1948, with the duty to recommend a master plan and zoning ordinance. The first zoning ordinance (Number 20) was adopted in March 1951 and created a single zoning district for "A" One Family. Lots were required to be 20,000 square feet and dwellings were required to be 1,000 square feet in size. The Benbrook Volunteer Fire Department was also organized and Jim Childers served as the first fire chief.

Figure 4. Benbrook Volunteers Assisting Fort Worth Flood Victims, 1949 .

The City also began addressing the need for water supply. Initially, homes were supplied by individual water wells. In 1949, the Worth Water Company was granted a 25-year franchise to install and operate a water system to serve the Village. The Benbrook Water and Sewer Authority was created in April 1955 by the Texas Legislature and assumed the assets of the Worth Water Company.

In 1940, beer and liquor sales were approved in the Benbrook area by a one-vote margin<sup>94</sup>, alcohol sales were legal when Benbrook incorporated. The City Council passed an Ordinance (No. 4) to prohibit the sale of alcohol through the City, except for the sale of beer along U.S. 377 from the railroad tracks to Mercedes Street. This ordinance was validated by a local option election in November 1949, where citizens voted to prohibit sales of beer and liquor by a vote of 35 to 32.<sup>95</sup> In July 1954, a local option election was held to permit the sale of all alcoholic beverages for off-premise consumption only, but this was defeated by a vote of 95 to 50. In May 1971, Tarrant County held a local option election covering Justice of the Peace District No. 6, which included Benbrook, White Settlement, Westover Hills, Westworth Village and portions of western Fort Worth that approved the sale of mixed drinks by 3,149 to 1,075. White Settlement and Westworth Village immediately held local option elections to prohibit the sale of mixed drinks. In June 1971, Benbrook held an election that prohibited all alcohol sales, except for beer for off-premise consumption, by a vote of 507 to 376.<sup>96</sup>

By 1950, the new City had three stores and 617 residents. The Dunlap Addition on Llano Street was platted in 1949. The Benbrook Lakeside Addition was platted in 1950 on the site of the old Benbrook Air Field, with typical lots of 225 feet by 225 feet. This was in the spirit of Frank Lloyd Wright's ideal subdivision where everyone owned an acre of land. However, to stimulate sales the subdivision was replatted within a few years to 75 by 225-foot and 75 by 150-foot lots and homes were sold for about $8,500. At about the same time in 1950, North Benbrook Addition was platted into lots 50 by 100-foot in size. The lots along Chapin Road were replatted about ten years later into larger lots. A new City Hall and fire station was built on Del Rio Avenue, just off U.S. 377, in 1951. In 1953, the City disannexed about 1.5 square miles in the future Westpark area. The City adopted its first subdivision ordinance (Number 74) in August 1955, which required developers to dedicate and construct adequate street and drainage facilities. The First Baptist Church of

Benbrook was organized in August 1954.<sup>97</sup> The Benbrook Methodist Church moved to its present location in 1956.<sup>98</sup>

In 1951, by a two-vote margin, the City voted to outlaw taverns. The Benbrook School building was abandoned and moved to its present location on Mercedes Street in 1953, on land donated by Mrs. Grace Cozby and Duane Johnson.<sup>99</sup> Construction was funded by school improvement bonds and a Federal grant received because of the large number of Defense plant workers.<sup>100</sup> After 1954, students above the sixth grade attended Fort Worth Schools and Fort Worth ISD began charging $10 per month tuition.<sup>101</sup> Reports show that there were 244 such students in 1957. The 1950s also saw competition over limited tax funds, with the Volunteer Fire Department wanting a share of funds while the City said that the Village would operate the Fire Department as created under Ordinance 18.<sup>102</sup> Mayor Wade Malone noted that franchise fees were collected by Texas Electric Service Company, Lone Star Gas Company, and Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, but the City was not collecting any revenue from the Worth Water Company.

By 1957, aerial photograph reveals that most of the houses were located on Del Rio, San Saba, Bandera, and San Angelo Streets in Benbrook Estates, though almost an equal number of 45 homes were located on Wade Hampton Street. Other streets present included Cozby North, Childers, Vernon Castle, McKinley, Davidson, Bryant, Usher, Warden and Park Center, but most of these were not paved and there were not more than a total of ten houses on all of these streets combined.

Benbrook had long been charged with operating a "speed trap" on U.S. 377, a charge that apparently never has been substantiated. In 1959, two residents of Brownwood and Fort Worth erected billboards urging motorists to avoid Benbrook's "vicious speed trap" by using U.S. 67 through Cleburne. It was alleged that some 200 Brown County residents had been ticketed in a period of a few months. Interestingly, a reporter from the Brownwood Citizen's Journal investigated the claims and found them baseless.<sup>103</sup>

The census of 1960 indicates that Benbrook has grown to 3,254 people. In 1961, the Texas Education Agency performed a study of the costs of building a Junior/Senior High School to educate Benbrook students.<sup>104</sup> They estimated the construction cost at $5,000,000 and $75,000 of local funds to operate, which would require a tax increase of 240%. The Benbrook Common School District No. 58 became part of the Fort Worth Independent School District in 1962.<sup>105</sup> The Chapin School District also merged with Fort Worth at this time.<sup>106</sup> In 1968, the City disannexed approximately 1.7 square miles, including land in what is now CityView and land west of the future Loop 820. The first City Plan was prepared in 1969 along with the first Capital Improvements Program. The Comprehensive Plan (prepared by Parker-Croston Associates) projected the future population of Benbrook to be 24,700 in 1980 (actual was 13,579) and 52,125 in 1990. The Land Use Plan indicated the vast majority of land as single family residential land, with commercial, industrial, and multi-family limited to very few thoroughfare corridors. The 1969 Capital Improvements Program proposed a total of nearly $4 million in street and drainage projects and would have rebuilt most of the residential streets then in existence and provided drainage facilities to control most flooding in the City, but the bond election failed.

By 1970, the City had grown to 8,169 people. In 1972, the city staff had grown to 31 employees under the direction of City Administrator H.W. Jett.<sup>107</sup> A new City Hall was built in 1976 on the corner of Winscott Road and Mercedes Street. In 1977, the City updated its Comprehensive Plan in a series of three reports, including Land Use Studies, a Parks, Recreation, and Open Space Plan, and a Housing Element. The 1977 Plan projected the 1980 population to be 14,364 (actual was 13,579) and projected 1990 population to be 26,761. The plan proposed a mix of land uses which does not differ substantially from the currently adopted Plan, with the exception that the area south of Mary's Creek and west of U.S. 377 was proposed for single family residential. The Park Plan proposed a series of nine new neighborhood parks, along with protection of flood plains and existing parks, and construction of a recreation facility/library. A proposed bond issue for the recreation facility failed in 1978, but bonds for a new fire station and streets were approved. A revised bond issue for drainage was approved in 1979. The Housing Element stressed conservation and rehabilitation of older stock housing.

State Law allows cities over 5,000 population to elect to have a home rule charter that provides much more flexibility and authority of municipal government. Benbrook's first Home Rule Chapter Commission was appointed in April 1975 to draft a charter, but the proposition failed on the ballot in January 1977. A second Charter Commission was appointed in April 1977, but the measure failed again in August 1978. A third Commission was elected in April 1982, and the Charter finally passed in April 1983.<sup>108</sup>

In 1980, the City had a total population of 13,579 people. A $4.1 million bond issue for streets and drainage was defeated in 1980. A possible tornado and hail damaged numerous homes and businesses in May 1981.<sup>109</sup> Loop 820 was completed from Hulen Street to U.S. 377 in 1981, while the remainder opened in 1982. In 1981, an election to merge the City with the Benbrook Water & Sewer Authority failed.<sup>110</sup> The City experienced a tremendous building boom between 1974 and 1985, with a 90 percent increase in the number of single-family houses built and a 40-fold increase in the number of multifamily dwelling units built. A bond election in 1985 approved funds for a police station, streets and drainage improvements. However, building activity had slowed considerably in the last half of the 1980s. The Benbrook Area Chamber of Commerce was created in 1986.<sup>111</sup> In January 1989, the voters turned down a bond election for streets, drainage and a library. Voters also defeated use of a 1/2-cent sales tax for a library in May 1992.

By 1990, the City's population had reached 19,564 and the number of businesses had grown to over 400. However, the large majority of workers in Benbrook worked elsewhere. In 1991, the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission recommended the closure of Carswell Air Force Base and realignment as a Naval Reserve Center. The Air Force Base officially closed in December 1993. In March 1993, Lockheed Corporation purchased the General Dynamics Aircraft Plant. In September 1997, voters approved an $8 million bond issue for streets, drainage, and an indoor community recreation center. Also in 1997, the community constructed the Castle Park Playground using volunteer labor and donated materials.<sup>112</sup>

REFERENCES CITED

- <sup>1</sup> Dalbey, Timothy S., undated. Upper Trinity River Cultural Resources. U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Fort Worth District.
- <sup>2</sup> Benbrook-Western Hills Shopper, 1989a. "Benbrook One of Fastest-Growing Cities Population Gained 20,000 in 30 years." January 31-February 1, 1989.
- <sup>3</sup> Madge Willburn, unpublished information, September 8, 1995.
- <sup>4</sup> Landon Williams, unpublished manuscript.
- <sup>5</sup> Historic Preservation Council for Tarrant County, Texas, 1989. Fort Worth: Upper North, Northeast, East, Far South and Far West.
- <sup>6</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966a. "Benbrook School Dates Back 100 years." September 29, 1966.
- <sup>7</sup> Benbrook-Western Hills Shopper, 1989b. "Benbrook's First Pupils Learned Lessons From Bible and McGuffey's Reader In Classes Taught By Parents." March 14-15, 1989.
- <sup>8</sup> Ibid.
- <sup>9</sup> Landon Williams, op.cit.
- <sup>10</sup> Benbrook/Western Hills Shopper, 1989b. op.cit.
- <sup>11</sup> Landon Williams, op.cit.
- <sup>12</sup> Historic Preservation Council for Tarrant County, Texas. 1990. Tarrant County Historic Resources Survey, Selected Tarrant County Communities.
- <sup>13</sup> Handbook of Texas Online, 1999. "Benbrook, Texas." <http://www.tsha.utexas.edu/benbrook>.
- <sup>14</sup> Madge Willburn, op.cit.
- <sup>15</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966a. op.cit.
- <sup>16</sup> Benbrook/Western Hills Shopper, 1989c. "Three R's Were Only A Small Part Of The Job For Benbrook Teachers 75 years Ago." April 11-12, 1989.
- <sup>17</sup> Handbook of Texas Online, 1999. op.cit.
- <sup>18</sup> Landon Williams, op.cit.
- <sup>19</sup> Ibid.
- <sup>20</sup> Williams, Mack, 1988. "State to widen Benbrook Road where Sam Bass robbed stage coaches." Benbrook Shopper, July 12, 13, 1988.
- <sup>21</sup> Landon Williams, op.cit.
- <sup>22</sup> Fifth Grade Rise Students, 1982. "Benbrook Yesterday and Today". Benbrook Elementary School.

- <sup>23</sup> Ibid.
- <sup>24</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966b. "Benbrook has thrilling and Fascinating Periods of the Past.", September 29, 1966.
- <sup>25</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966c. "Historical Highlights," September 29, 1966.
- <sup>26</sup> Fort Worth Daily Gazette, 1887. "How Long, Oh! Lord! Before the Bold Bad bandit Will Cease Robbing Texas Railroad Trains for a Living?", June 5, 1887.
- <sup>27</sup> Fort Worth Daily Gazette, 1887. "A Twice Told Tale." September 21, 1887.
- <sup>28</sup> Selcer, Richard F., "Hell's Half Acre, The Life and Legend of a Red-Light District." Fort Worth, Texas Christian University Press.
- <sup>29</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966d. "Dick Bunch". September 29, 1966.
- <sup>30</sup> Williams, Mack, 1977. "In Old Fort Worth."
- <sup>31</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1967. "Benbrook Was "Hold-Up headquarters" During Early days of Old West." October 12, 1967.
- <sup>32</sup> Landon Williams, op.cit.
- <sup>33</sup> Fifth Grade Rise Students, 1982. op.cit.
- <sup>34</sup> Williams, Mack, 1984. "Old Cowboys Tell How It Was, In Old Fort Worth", Fort Worth News-Tribune, December 7, 1984.
- <sup>35</sup> Williams, Mack, 1990a. "Z Boaz: Benbrook Farm Boy Whose Gifts Benefited Many." Benbrook/Western Hills Shopper, March 27-28, 1990.
- <sup>36</sup> Wear, Robert, 1947. "Benbrook Decides to become 'City'; Tiny Community Elects a Mayor." Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Sunday, Dec. 21, 1947.
- <sup>37</sup> Benbrook, Jerry, 1997. Personal communication by e-mail, 4/17/99.
- <sup>38</sup> Williams, Mack, 1990b. "Here's The First Published Life History of James M. Benbrook; He Survived War Wounds, Frontier Dangers, Business Downturns." Benbrook/Western Hills Shopper, January 30-31, 1990.
- <sup>39</sup> Fifth Grade Rise Students, 1982. op.cit.
- <sup>40</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966e. "Benbrook Namesake's Forefather Fought in Revolutionary War." September 29, 1966.
- <sup>41</sup> Landon Williams, op.cit.
- <sup>42</sup> Historic Preservation Council for Tarrant County, Texas, 1989. op.cit.
- <sup>43</sup> Kauss, Mary, 1987. "History hidden in Ridglea". Fort Worth Star-Telegram, August 5, 1987.
- <sup>44</sup> Madge Willburn, op.cit.
- <sup>45</sup> Historic Preservation Council for Tarrant County, Texas, 1989. op.cit.
- <sup>46</sup> Historic Preservation Council for Tarrant County, Texas, 1989. op.cit.
- <sup>47</sup> Historic Preservation Council for Tarrant County, Texas, 1990. op.cit.
- <sup>48</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1967. op.cit.
- <sup>49</sup> Historic Preservation Council for Tarrant County, Texas, 1989. op.cit.
- <sup>50</sup> Historic Preservation Council for Tarrant County, Texas, 1990. op.cit.
- <sup>51</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966a. op.cit.
- <sup>52</sup> Benbrook/Western Hills Shopper, 1989c. op.cit.
- <sup>53</sup> Rose, William A., 1984. Benbrook United Methodist Church, 1857-1984. April 27, 1984.
- <sup>54</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966a. op.cit.
- <sup>55</sup> Benbrook/Western Hills Shopper, 1989c. op.cit.
- <sup>56</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966a. op.cit.
- <sup>57</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966e. "Famous Flyer Vernon Castle Crashed Here During WWI." September 29, 1966.
- <sup>58</sup> Morgan, Hugh, 1992. "Royal Flying Corps in Texas." Aeroplane Monthly, December 1992.
- <sup>59</sup> General Order No. 33, May 1, 1918. Major Rhinehardt, Headquarters, Carruthers Field, Benbrook, Texas.
- <sup>60</sup> Morgan, Hugh, 1992. "Royal Flying Corps in Texas". Aeroplane Magazine, November 1992.
- <sup>61</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966c. op.cit.
- <sup>62</sup> Fairley, Bill, 1997. "No pilot more dashing than Castle in WWI." Fort Worth Star-Telegram, May 21, 1997.
- <sup>63</sup> The Journal, 1997. "Who Was Vernon Castle?". October 16, 1997.
- <sup>64</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966e. op.cit.
- <sup>65</sup> ibid.
- <sup>66</sup> Wear, Robert, 1947. op.cit.
- <sup>67</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966f. op.cit.
- <sup>68</sup> Fifth Grade Rise Students, 1982. op.cit.
- <sup>69</sup> The Journal, 1997. "Vernon Castle Rededication." October 16, 1997.
- <sup>70</sup> Various correspondence: National Archives letter from Charlotte Palmer Seeley dated June 21, 1989; National Archives letter from Stuart Butler dated July 27, 1989; Texas Historical commission letter from Bruce Jensen dated September 1, 1989; Texas State Library letter from Michael R. Green dated September 1, 1989; Eugene C. Barker Texas History Center letter from William H. Richter dated September 18, 1989.

- <sup>71</sup> Fifth Grade Rise Students, 1982. op.cit.
- <sup>72</sup> Crump, Matthew A., undated. "All Season, Coast-to-Coast; The Bankhead Highway and The Quest for Mobility." Unpublished manuscript.
- <sup>73</sup> Mary Layne, unpublished correspondence, January 3, 1989.
- <sup>74</sup> Hueholt, Leslie, 1991. "Shedding light on the shady nooks from a time gone by", Fort Worth Star-Telegram, April 18, 1991.
- <sup>75</sup> Mary Layne, op.cit.
- <sup>76</sup> Historic Preservation Council for Tarrant County, Texas, 1990. op.cit.
- <sup>77</sup> Hueholt, Leslie, 1991.op.cit.
- <sup>78</sup> Rose, William A., 1984. op.cit.
- <sup>79</sup> ibid.
- <sup>80</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966f. op.cit.
- <sup>81</sup> Williams, Mack, 1990c. "61 years in Benbrook, Herschel Montgomery recalls When Mercedes was Lover's Lane." Benbrook/Western Hills Shopper, May 22-23, 1990.
- <sup>82</sup> Williams, Mack, 1977. op.cit.
- <sup>83</sup> Fifth Grade Rise Students, 1982. op.cit.
- <sup>84</sup> Historic Preservation Council for Tarrant County, Texas, 1990. op.cit.
- <sup>85</sup> Williams, Mack, 1988. "Benbrook was "Capital" of U.S. Four Times during FDR Administration." Benbrook Shopper, June 28-29, 1988.
- <sup>86</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966b. op.cit.
- <sup>87</sup> Handbook of Texas Online, 1999. op.cit.
- <sup>88</sup> Williams, Mack, 1990c. op.cit.
- <sup>89</sup> Benbrook Sun, 1988. "Benbrook - A city on the grow". Benbrook Sun, March 2, 1988.
- <sup>90</sup> ibid.
- <sup>91</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966g. "Benbrook Lake Gives City Top Recreation Facilities." September 29, 1966.
- <sup>92</sup> Williams, Mack, 1989. "Tarrant County's Worst Disaster put Benbrook on Map 40 years Ago." Benbrook-Western Hills Shopper, January 3-4, 1989.
- <sup>93</sup> Wear, Robert, 1947. op.cit.
- <sup>94</sup> Fort Worth Star-Telegram, 1949. "Wet Era Dies in Benbrook By Vote of 3". November 9, 1949.
- <sup>95</sup> Fort Worth Star-Telegram, 1949. op.cit.
- <sup>96</sup> Gattis, Dave, 1997. "Alcohol Sales in Benbrook." memorandum dated 18 August 1997.
- <sup>97</sup> "A Brief History of First Baptist Church of Benbrook, unpublished.
- <sup>98</sup> Rose, William A., 1984. op.cit.
- <sup>99</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966a. op.cit.
- <sup>100</sup> Slaughter, Tony, 1951. "Residents Say Benbrook Going to be fastest Growing Town in Tarrant." Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Saturday, April 14, 1951.
- <sup>101</sup> Benbrook/Western Hills Shopper, 1989. "When Fort Worth Schools Began Charging Benbrook Students $10 Monthly Tuition, Talk of a merger grew Stronger." May 23-24, 1989.
- <sup>102</sup> Fort Worth Star-Telegram, circa 1952. "Benbrook to reject Part of Audit Report, Malone Says."
- <sup>103</sup> Joyner, B.G., 1959. "Benbrook-Speed Trap?", The Brownwood Citizen's Journal, January 21, 1959.
- <sup>104</sup> Graham, Leon R. and Charles T. Roberts, undated. "Benbrook Common School District No. 58 School facilities Survey." Unpublished Texas Education Agency report.
- <sup>105</sup> Benbrook Banner, 1966a. op.cit.
- <sup>106</sup> Benbrook/Western Hills Shopper, 1989. op.cit.
- <sup>107</sup> Anonymous, 1972. Unpublished organizational chart, February 1972.
- <sup>108</sup> City records. Personal communication from Joanna King, Benbrook City Secretary, July 2, 1999.
- <sup>109</sup> Maddox, Lisa, 1981. "Picking up the pieces after the storm." Benbrook Times, May 14, 1981.
- <sup>110</sup> Norman, Cindy, 1981. "Benbrook is on the grow." Fort Worth Star-Telegram, January 7-8, 1981.
- <sup>111</sup> Benbrook Sun, 1987. "Progress, Our Community Spirit." Benbrook Sun, March 1987.
- <sup>112</sup> The Journal, 1997. "If you ask them to build it...they will come." November 13, 1997.